"Acts of Kindness"

Easter is almost as early as it possibly can be this year – and with daffodils, primroses and snowdrops all out together in January- quite what Easter flowers will look like, or whether we will easily be able to make posies for Mothering Sunday, is a bit of a mystery at the moment.

Easter in the northern hemisphere is frequently associated with spring and spring flowers – new life springing out of cold dark earth- and they are wonderful symbols for us to enjoy and reflect upon, but they are just that- symbols – they point us towards the meaning of Easter- the mystery of the transformation of what seemed the end –into a new beginning; the turning of what seemed like the triumph of evil, into the victory of love.

The Easter story tells us of the lives of Jesus' followers- stories of lives where sorrow is turned into celebration; doubt to faith; questions to answers; confusion to confidence; darkness to light.

I am writing this letter before even Lent has begun – still in the season of Epiphany- a season of Christ making himself known in people's lives, revealing himself and God to the people entrusted into his care. Epiphany and Easter go hand in hand – as Christ revealed himself, so each of us is called to live "the risen life", living out Christ's love for the world, in all that we are, all that we do and all that we say.

When you read this at the beginning of March, there will still be several weeks of Lent left...one of the challenges this Lent is to use the 40 days to show 40 acts of kindness- do something each and every day- that reveals something of our faith, in service to the world, that God loved so much that he sent his only Son. It may be that you are taking part in Christian Aid's challenge to count your blessings or another similar project ... but by doing something each and every day- which demonstrates something of God and his love for the world- we anticipate Easter and the great saving work of Jesus and his call to each of us, not just to take up our cross and follow him, but to live his risen life.

Across the benefice this year we have several opportunities for you to explore your faith – there is Sacred Space on a Friday afternoon – see the details elsewhere in Grapevine and on Maundy Thursday to join us for a Poetry Eucharist at Clopton Church. There is the Deanery Lent Course too, on a Tuesday evening at Rendlesham, offering a lift to someone would count as 1 of your 40 acts of kindness too!

A very Happy Easter to you all

Rev'd Clare Sanders
