Reform – A Gideon’s Perspective

The Archbishops of Canterbury and York have committed the Church of England to reform and renewal and on 31st October this year will mark the 500th anniversary of Martin Luther nailing his 95 Theses to the door of the Castle Church at Wittenberg, thus setting in train what we know as the Reformation. We shall doubtless hear more of that word this year.

Jane and I have been members of the Gideons for around 20 years and it is my job to organise the annual visits to schools in our area to offer every Year 7 student a personal Gideon Bible. Like the seed in the parable, some do fall by the wayside and go in the bin, but we regularly receive letters telling how someone has read their little red Bible and thereby come to faith and commitment to Christ. Started in the U.S.A in 1898, the Gideons were established in the U.K. in 1949. Now the British Gideons are also in the throes of reform, initiated partly by disquiet from members about some of the more rigid rules of the parent body and partly by Charity Commission concerns that those rules might infringe the Equality Act.

Vested interests, unthinking prejudices, sincerely-held convictions, inertia, tradition and legal red tape (to name just a few) make reform difficult in any age – think of Jesus, think of Luther. In the case of the Gideons, the main obstacle is the attitude of the governing body of The Gideons International (still dominated by the U.S.A.), which is currently unwilling to permit the reforms proposed by the U.K. Gideons that will put men (Gideons) and women (Auxiliaries) on an equal footing in the rule book, reflecting the way things already happen on the ground.

Difficult and delicate negotiations lie ahead, just as they do for the Archbishops’ agenda and any programme of reform. What is so reassuring and encouraging in our local Gideon branch is what attracted us to join in the first place – members with huge potential for division (we come from different denominations and often disagree markedly on how we interpret the Word in the Bibles we distribute) work, pray and share with sincerity, respect, grace and love. We may need to remember that when we discuss change and reform in our PCCs and churches.

I encourage everyone reading this to have an agenda for reform, starting with ourselves, but at the same time to recognise that what is necessary reform to one may be misguided and cause hurt to another. The work of the East Suffolk Gideons goes on – the specific, placing Bibles in schools, hotels, hospitals, colleges, nursing-homes etc., and the general, making God’s love known by personal witness. The fellowship, example and encouragement of the branch will continue whatever the outcome of the reform process. Equally, the branch values the support and prayers of friends and churches. Do let me know if you would like to find out more.

Whether you are frustrated by reform or the lack of it, encourage one another in doing our work of making God’s love known.

The speaker is John Peacock

Title: "Tales from The Deep"

Biography: Our next guest speaker John Peacock has had a long and fruitful career working in Telecommunications and IT. He holds some of the patents for today's superfast fibre network and was one of the founding fathers of broadband in 1990s. However, in the early part of his career he was a member of the Royal Navy's submarine service. The year is 1975 and the cold war is in full swing and due to obvious sensitivity, its story has largely gone untold until recent times. John will tell us about life aboard one of our nuclear "hunter" killer submarines, who's role was to hunt and stalk the USSR's Red Northern Banner fleet from its home ports in Northern Russia out into the north Atlantic. He'll retell some of the adventures along the way and hopefully give us a small inkling of what was taking place in the deep depths of the cold northern seas.

Support for Christian refugees in Jordan

Clare's Godmother Pam has a long-established connection with Jordan, where she worked for many years. The churches in Jordan have a huge responsibility of care for Christian refugees from both Syria and Iraq.

Pam is going out to Jordan at the end of March and hopes to take with her a large collection of children and ladies underwear. If you would like to contribute to this, donations of new underwear can be left in our churches and the clergy and Churchwardens will ensure that it gets to Clare, who will take it to her godmother. Thank you for your support.

LOOKING AHEAD....

Recently we have been praying and speaking about discernment, journeys and change. Well, I have a personal notice to share, which has been the result of much prayer, discernment and discussion with Bishop Martin.

In early September, of this year, I shall be retiring from my current post here in the Carlford benefice - and take up what is called 'permission to officiate.'

This means I shall continue to serve God in other parts of the Diocese, looking forward to new challenges and further developing a ministry of creative art.

I look forward to, perhaps, being invited back on occasions as Guest Speaker, or to conduct weddings, baptism and funerals to those who particularly ask, or give some musical entertainment for the Lunch clubs? I have made deep relationships with many of you. I hugely appreciate the support, wisdom and grace evident in these churches, and within a fantastic team of colleagues, second to none.

This autumn will therefore bring change - and I can assure you it will be a wrench for me to leave you and move on - yet, please remember I am still a priest AND your friend.

As a husband and wife team, this decision is made jointly with Alister.

Together, both in our 'third age', we look forward to being a Christian witness and having more flexible time to share with our families, both in the States and here.

My personal thanks to Clare and very many people will be voiced on another day in September.
