CLOPTON is a village on the Debenham road, 4 miles N.W. of Woodbridge, and 7 miles N.E. of Ipswich. Its parish, which includes Clopton Green and several scattered houses and farms, extending 2 miles N. of the village, is in Woodbridge union, Woodbridge county court district, Ipswich bankruptcy court district, Carlford hundred, Woodbridge petty sessional division, Carlford rural deanery, Suffolk archdeaconry, and Norwich diocese. It had 358 inhabitants in 1891, and comprises 2,074 acres of land; the rateable value is £2,689. It is in the manors of Kingshall, of which the Rev. Samuel Hooke is lord, and Brendhall, Rousehall, and Wascolies, of which W. S. Calvert, Esq., of East Bergholt, is lord, and for which a general Customary Court is held yearly in July, but the chief part of the soil is enfranchised. Lord Rendlesham, Mrs. Helen Bennett, Mr. John Symonds, and Mr. F. W. Catt are the principal landowners. In the 31st of Edward I. (1303) John de Weyland obtained a charter for a market and fair here, but they have long been obsolete. The Sackvilles, Weylands, and Bardolphs were successively lords of Clopton from the reign of Henry I. till after that of Edward III. A small stream, which rises here and runs through part of the parish, is supposed to have been navigable at one time; a field through which it runs is still called Clopton Dock. In 1868 an urn containing ashes was found in a bog through which this stream flows. Pear Tree Farm derives its name from a large pear tree, said to be the largest in England, which stands near the house, and from which in 1873 one ton of pears was gathered. The CHURCH (St. Mary) is a small ancient fabric, dating from the 13th century, and comprising nave, chancel, and a tower on the south side of the nave, containing six bells. In 1883 the chancel was rebuilt on a larger scale, and the entire church was thoroughly restored, at a cost of about £2,000. It has since been re-seated with open oak benches, and a new organ placed in the chancel. A piscina was found in the south wall during the restoration. The Register dates from 1536. The living is a rectory, valued in K. B. at £16 13s. 4d., and now having a yearly rent-charge of £698 19s. 10d., in lieu of tithes commuted in 1843. It is in the patronage of the Rev. C. H. Frost, of Foulsham, and incumbency of the Rev. Samuel Hooke, M.A. A SCHOOL BOARD was formed here in January, 1874, and a handsome School, with master's house, was erected in 1875, at a cost of £1,074, but not opened until 1877. It is attended by 60 children. The TOWN ESTATE comprises four tenements, occupied by poor families; 14 acres of land, held since 1489, for the repairs of the church and the relief of the poor, and now let for £35 a year; and the Bell Pightle, 2½ acres, let for £4 10s. a year, which is applied in the repairs of the bells. In 1855, William Jacques Steel left £200, to be invested in three per cent. consols, the proceeds of which are to be applied in the purchase of bread, to be distributed every Sunday amongst the poor of the parish.
